RISK FACTORS

An investment in the Debt Securities entails certain risks not associated with an investment in conventional fixed rate debt securities. See “Risk Factors” generally, and “Various Factors Could Adversely Affect the Trading Value and Yield of Your Securities,” in the Offering Circular. The interest rate of the Debt Securities will be 7.63% subject to “Interest Accrual” as described above. Investors should consider the risk that the Interest Accrual provisions applicable to the Debt Securities may result in less interest payable on the Debt Securities than on a conventional fixed rate debt security issued by Freddie Mac at the same time. Investors should also consider the risk that USD LIBOR for the Index Maturity on a LIBOR Observation Date may be outside the LIBOR Range, in which event no interest will accrue for the related days during the Interest Payment Period.

The secondary market for, and the market value of, the Debt Securities will be affected by a number of factors independent of the creditworthiness of Freddie Mac, including the level and direction of interest rates, the Interest Accrual provisions applicable to the Debt Securities, the anticipated level and potential volatility of LIBOR for the Index Currency at the Index Maturity, the method of calculating LIBOR for the Index Currency at the Index Maturity, the time remaining to the maturity of the Debt Securities, the aggregate principal amount of the Debt Securities and the availability of comparable instruments. The level of LIBOR for the Index Currency at the Index Maturity depends on a number of interrelated factors, including economic, financial and political events, over which Freddie Mac has no control. The following table, showing the level of LIBOR for the Index Currency at the Index Maturity in effect for the hypothetical Determination Dates listed below, illustrates the variability of that rate:

Historical Levels of USD 6-Month LIBOR

Hypothetical Determination Date	6-Month LIBOR %
09/26/95	5.87500
03/26/96	5.44141
09/26/96	5.75000
03/26/97	5.92969
09/26/97	5.84375
03/26/98	5.73828
09/26/98	5.25000
03/26/99	5.06125
09/26/99	5.92625
03/26/00	6.45500
09/26/00	6.75000
03/26/01	4.68625

The historical experience of LIBOR for the Index Currency at the Index Maturity should not be taken as an indication of the future performance of LIBOR for the Index Currency at the Index Maturity during the term of the Debt Securities. Fluctuations in the level of LIBOR for the Index Currency at the Index Maturity make the Debt Securities interest rates difficult to predict and can result in actual interest rates to investors that are lower than anticipated. In addition, historical interest rates are not necessarily indicative of future interest rates. Fluctuations in interest rates and interest rate trends that have occurred in the past are not necessarily indicative of fluctuations that may occur in the future, which may be wider or narrower than those that have occurred historically.

CERTAIN UNITED STATES FEDERAL TAX CONSEQUENCES

Freddie Mac believes that the Debt Securities provide for interest at an “objective rate” and therefore constitute a “variable rate debt instrument,” as those terms are used in the OID Regulations. Freddie Mac intends to report interest deductions with respect to the Debt Securities based on this treatment. For a general discussion of the tax consequences associated with this type of instrument, see “Certain United States Federal Tax Consequences” in the Offering Circular. Investors who purchase the Debt Securities at a market discount or premium should consult their tax advisors regarding the appropriate rate of accrual or amortization for such market discount or premium.

Although unlikely, it is possible that the Debt Securities would be taxed in some other manner. Investors should consult their tax advisors regarding alternative treatments, including the possible application of the contingent payment debt regulations.
